The Week With Alberta's Legislators

(By T. B. Windross)

Edmonton, Alta.—Death of the late Hon. P.C.H. Primrose, lieutenant-governor of Alberta, has placed a fresh obstacle in the way of the legislature getting through with its financial legislation before the end of the fiscal year, which is March 31, but this will have to be hurried through and doubtless will be passed in time, if all parties cooperate as is expected.

The funeral of Colonel Primrose, which was a state funeral was the largest and most impressive as well as most representative of all funerals held in the capital. Friday, the body lay in state for two hours in the legislative chamber with R.C. M.P. officers standing guard at each corner of the casket while the public filed past, over 1,300 were counted passing the casket. They came from all walks in life to pay their respects to the distinguished dead.

Announcement was made Monday morning, March 22, of the appointment of J. C. Bowen, former Liberal leader in the Legislature as the successor to Colonel Primrose as Lieutenant-governor. Word of his appointment was received by Captain Bowen Saturday from Ottawa, but the official announcement was only made Monday, Lieutenant-Governor Bowen is a former Baptist preacher with a war record and is a prominent insurance man in Edmonton. His appointment is considered a suitable reward for public services well rendered and is a popular one.

Much speculation is heard around Edmonton as to the fate of the government's budget, which admittedly is not a popular one either with the general public or supporters of the government. It is an orthodox budget and contains no Social Credit features, excepting a provision for $50,000 with which to administer the proposed Alberta Social Credit measures to be passed.

All last week there were rumors more or less confirmed by the attitude of various members on the government side of the house, that considerable dissatisfaction is felt by these members with the plans of the administration to implement Social Credit and much urging for speed has been pressed upon the cabinet at the caucus meetings. It is said. There seems to be a strong feeling that the cabinet is moving too slowly and complaints are heard that no definite plan is as yet in hand for carrying out the real Social Credit program.

Some Social Credit members have actually said they fear that if the budget and estimates are passed by the house before the Social Credit measures are introduced the administration will be in a position to stall off the implementation of the new system for another year and there is a section of the party which has been considering steps to assure that such a situation shall not exist. But these are only rumors partly confirmed and it is likely that the necessary finances will be passed by the house without hitch before the end of the fiscal year.

The house opened its sittings again on Tuesday, March 23, and was preceded by the swearing in of the new Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. J. C. Bowen. The fact that at the death of Colonel Primrose there was no provision in the British North America act for a deputy to carry on

New Books at Public Library

During the last few weeks quite a number of new books have been added to the list at the library. There have also been several children's books added, and readers will find new material awaiting them. Following are the recent books purchased by the Library board:

"Baby Animals With Their Mother," "Old Strawberry and Molly," "Talking Leaves," "The Galaxy" by Drytz, "The Doctor" Rinehart, "Mother West Wind," "Threave" and "Wolf" by Terhune, "Cowboy" Santee, "Animal Heroes" Seton, "Emmy Lou" Martin, "Sugar and Spice," "A Boy of the Old French West" Robbins, "Inside Europe" Gunther, "How We Got Our Bible" Smyth, "An Empty Cabin" Grey Owl, "Sajo, the Beaver People" Grey Owl, "The Pony Express Goes Through" Briggs, "On the Trail of the Sandhill Stag" Thompson, "Witeoak Harvest" DeLa Roche, "White Banners" Douglas, "Poems of Childhood" Eugene Field, "When We Were Very Young" A. A. Milne, "Silver Pennies" Thompson, "Educating by Story Telling" Cather, "The Picnic Book" Ayer, "Round the Year" Gates and Huber, "Enchanted Paths" Verne, "Ships of Araby," "Pathways in Science" books 4, 5 and 6, "Play Out of Doors" "Heroes Every Child Should Know" Maltie, "Our Wonderful Universe" Chant.

As stated before the reading library days have been increased now to six, and each day except Tuesday the library will be open from 4 to 7 p. m. and on Sunday from 2 to 5 p. m. This gives readers of the town a total of 21 hours each week when they can exchange books and spend their time reading if they choose. An added magazine in the library rack from now on will be "The Rotarian", a monthly periodical contributed to the library by the Raymond Rotary Outpost.

NEWS NOTES

Howard Melchin had an attack of the flu this week and was away from work part of the day Wednesday.

J. U. and C. E. Allred returned on Friday from their trip to Utah. They returned in the Hacking car from Magrath. Spring is well advanced in Utah, and conditions are very promising, they state. Despite their sorrowful mission in burying their brother, they report a pleasant trip.

In the interim necessitated the adjournment of the house until a new governor was named, that couldn't be done until after the funeral of the late governor. The situation created a constitutional problem of the kind for the first time in the history of Canada.

When the house reassembled Tuesday the debate on the budget proceeded but was soon concluded owing to the necessity for gaining time for the estimates to be put through before next Thursday. The first speaker was Mr. R. E. Ansley, M.L.A., of Leduc. He urged on the government the necessity of taking unmistakable steps in the direction of placing definite Social Credit legislation in operation so as to fulfill the promises made to the people of Alberta.

Union Jacks Tame Varsity Golden Bears

Playing before a fair-sized crowd in the Raymond Opera House last Saturday evening, the local Union Jacks, Alberta Basketball champions for the past six years, tamed the "Golden Bears" of the University of Alberta, Edmonton, by a score of 29-43, in a game which featured everything from first-class basketball to hugging matches, and loose play when both teams seemed to do anything but play basketball.

The main game was featured by a preliminary game between the 1st ward "M" Men and the High School team, who have been fighting each other all winter for supremacy. Last night it was the first ward "M" men's turn to win, and they turned the trick with a score of 23-17 after a hectic game.

When the senior teams took the floor they were greeted with a burst of enthusiasm, and the crowd were on their toes for the full forty minutes of play, there being bursts of clever passing and basketball throughout the game. Walker of Edmonton bulged the hemp for the visitors with a beautiful field goal, and almost before the applause from this shot had died down, Nalder, sniper de luxe for Raymond, sunk a beauty on a short pass from Donny Nilsson, and from then on it was one for you and one for me. The first half witnessed close guarding and low score and until within five minutes of half time the visitors managed to keep a point or two ahead. However, just near the close of the half Raymond staged a scoring spree and ended the half eight points to the good with a score of 21-13.

After the breather, Raymond went on a scoring spree, and half way through the second stanza the score was 39-20 for Raymond. Just about this time, Nalder, who had been playing stellar ball for Raymond was thumbed off for his fourth personal, and then by changing players, the Varsity crew managed to pick up a little lost ground to close the game 29-43 for Raymond, which margin of 14 points the locals will carry with them into the game at the Capitol city tomorrow night for the Provincial championship.

Malcolm, lanky center of the visitors was at a handicap with one of his shoes bound together with tape, which allowed him to slip about on the floor a great deal and lose much of his precision and ability in passing and shooting. He with his fast team mates, Walker, Richards and Lees play some fancy and dangerous ball when they commence to click, and the Jacks will have their hands full to win the game at Edmonton.

Raymond was hitting on all four as usual, and with Nilsson on centre getting more than his share of the tip offs, and grabbing the rebounds rom the shot of Nalder, VanOrman and Fairbanks, he added materially to the score, besides musing up many of the passes of the visitors. Paul Fairbanks and Winston Shaw two young players of great ability, were given a chance to strut their stuff and showed some real speed which the visitors were hardly able to keep up with.

McIntosh of Lethbridge and John O'Brien had the whistles and handled the game very satisfactorily, the tilt being very free from argument and booing. Players and score was as follows:

EDMONTON: R. Martin; S. Muscovitch; J. Lees, 8; Malcolm; 7; G. Martin; 1; G. Walker; 13; Richards. Total 29.

JACKS: Nalder, 10; VanOrman; 3; Shaw; Heggie; Nilsson, 12; R. Fairbanks, 4; King; P. Fairbanks, 9; Rolfson, 5. Total 43.

Funeral Services Wednesday for Elaine Henry

Funeral services over the remains of seven year old Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Henry, who passed away Sunday afternoon from complications following an attack of nervousness, were held in the 2nd ward chapel Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m. with Bishop James H. Walker in charge, and Jos. McLean conducting the singing with Mrs. Emma Dahl at the piano.

Songs by the choir were "When Dark and Drear the Skies appear", "The Lord is My Shepherd", and "Sometime We'll understand." Monte Scoville sang "Lullaby" and Jos. McLean sang "Your Sweet Little Rosebud has Left You."

The opening prayer was offered by Rulon Dahl and the benediction by W. A. Hennger. Speakers were Elders L. L. Palmer, D. M. Powelson and Bishop Walker, all of whom spoke of their appreciation of the parents and grandparents of the deceased, and of the hope and comfort that the Latter Day Saint teaching and understanding of the resurrection brought to people in their hours of trouble and trial. They urged all to remember that the spirit world was not far removed from this sphere of action and that we should guard our actions very carefully as we are watched by the departed of our families.

Class mates of deceased acted as flower girls. Pall bearers were Eugene Pierson, Roy Howard, Josiah Holland and Albert Heggie. A large cortege followed the remains to the cemetery where Christensen Bros. had charge.

The sympathy of the community goes out to the bereaved parents in their sorrow and bereavement.

"Princess Bonnie" Pleases Audience

300 Present at Payson Reunion

One of the most successful Payson reunions yet held was staged Wednesday afternoon in the Raymond Opera House, when 300 guests were present, including all who were born or had lived in Payson, with all their descendants both by blood and marriage, and children of these descendants over 14 yrs. of age. The number of possibilities continues to increase, and the attendance increases a little each year as junior members of the various families reach the fourteen year mark.

On Wednesday, a program occupied the crowd from 5 p. m. to 6:30, and then a splendid lunch was served cafeteria style this method being used to reduce the work on those serving and give everyone their choice of the good things provided. D. G. Selman was chairman of the refreshment committee, and he and his associates had this part of the evening well organized.

From about 8 p. m. until 9:30 games were played, and all declared that the games were as good as they had ever participated in. Mesdames Eleanor Hudson and Lenor Rolfson had these in charge, and as the group was divided by different colored ribbons as they came in, the groups took part with a will and made the games a real success. Dancing followed the games, music by the Swing Band, the dancing continuing until past midnight.

Following are the program numbers rendered under the program committee headed by Alma E. Hancock:

Address of welcome by A. E. Favns.

Harmonica duet by the Crawford boys.

Comic reading by Leland Holman.

Payson in 1900 and 1936. A comprehensive report of the changes that have taken place during these years by Dave Powelson.

Duet by the Rasmussen sisters.

Recitation by Huckleberry Finn, Miss Bennett.

Musical selection by Earl Hancock.

Reading by Maureen Powelson

Song by Monte Scoville.

G. S. Browerton, Cardston, was a Raymond visitor Wednesday.

Wm. Rodeback has purchased the Ed Nilsson property and will take possession April 1st.

Magistrate Low was in Raymond Tuesday hearing a case. Lawyers H. Ostlund and L. S. Turneote of Lethbridge were both here on the same case.

Jas. Hawkins has been very ill this week, his condition being so serious that he is given hypodermics regularly to ease his pain.

Henry Viney, sports commentator of C. J. O. C., and well known to Albertans was guest speaker at the Maple Leaf gardens in Toronto, Saturday night. His remarks came in fine over the air. The Leafs beat the Red Wings of Detroit by a score of 3-2 in an exciting game. These Imperial Oil broad casts are the Saturday evening entertainment of hundreds of Westemers.

A crowd of nearly 400 people gathered in the 2nd Ward Chapel Friday evening last to witness the production of the Comic Opera "The Princess Bonnie" prepared under the direction of Wm. C. Stone, with Mrs. Paul Dahl accompanist, and presented by a cast of 35 voices including choruses and principals.

There was just enough comedy in the story to keep the crowd in good spirits and applause was very generous throughout. To single out any individual as outstanding or superior would be unfair, as every member of the troupe handled their parts in a very excellent manner. Laboring under great handicaps for several months, due to illness of those taking part and the children of these people being ill has made the task of preparation especially burdensome and more than usual credit is due those who persisted in the face of all this and staged such a delightful and enjoyable opera.

The scenes were designed by Lyn Jordan of Lethbridge and painted by Sidney B. Smith, of Raymond, and besides reflecting credit on both these artists added greatly to the enjoyment and atmosphere of the production. Costuming was splendid the few specially ordered costumes setting of the sequences in splendid style. Alvin Jones and Mrs. C. A. Hudson were responsible for this. Sam Dyson was electrician, Ken Stone and Miss Rose Marie Wood had the dances, and Milton Strong, Henry Ehler and Roland Weed were the carpenters who constructed the framework for the scenes. The stage of the 2nd ward hall was just a trifle small for the accommodation of so many performers enmasse, but the acoustics were good, and when the audience was quiet and following the plot, everything was heard.

One could spend a lot of time mentioning each principal and chorus singer separately, but it takes all to make the thing a success, everyone had his or her part well in hand, and so we say, congratulations to all of them and may this be the beginning of future and greater success. The value to the participants that the training means in better voices and voice control is of unknown importance, and while financial returns from the presentation were as usual disappointing, compared to the labor and time expended, yet the educational value to all concerned can never be mentioned or measured.

Last Monday night at Cardston the cast received hearty applause from a good-sized audience, Saturday night they are going to Milk River, and Monday night they are repeating it here for the benefit of those who did not see it last week.

EASTER!

"Light of the morning is gild-ing the sky.

Shades of the night time are now passing by:
Earth is awakening from sadness and gloom.

Jesus has triumphed, o'er death and the tomb."

What message of hope and victory, and yet what a price of heartache, disappointment and despair it cost on the part of His disciples and followers who were unable to comprehend the significance of the sealing of His testimony with His blood.

It must have been a sad hour indeed when, struggling under the weight of the cross that was to bear His body, the man who had called himself the King of the Jews marched from Jerusalem to Golgotha to suffer the excruciating pains of crucifixion and death at the hands of those whom He had come to save. It was a fearful duty, fraught with sobs and many cries of anguish as Joseph of Arimathea and the faithful followers with courage enough to even be seen with the body of the Lord travelled from the scene of His death to the cemetery to lay the body in the freshly hewn tomb of solid rock to await the coming of the new week when the task of preparation and proper burial could be carried out in the proper manner.

That His might and power was recognized and to an extent feared, was manifest in the edict of the rulers that a huge stone be rolled to the mouth of the tomb, and the state seal placed thereon, and a guard of soldiers left to see that His followers did not steal away the body and then state that He had risen as He said. Truly a sad-dening evening than that of Good Friday, whatever name it may have been given then, would have been hard to imagine. One can imagine, as the disappointed ones wended their way home, such thoughts as these must have filled their mind: "we did not think this would ever happen," or "we must have been misled and fooled by the smooth words we heard," and many more.

The Sabbath passes, the new day of the new week dawns clear and beautiful. Up early to attend to the last rites of her beloved Master, Mary arrives at the tomb, finds it empty, and the body gone. What anguish and sorrow, but hold! Two beings in white sitting in the tomb and they speak, "He is not here, for He is risen, as he said; Come and see the place where He laid." Worse still, no body to attend to, probably fallen into the hands of enemies to be put to ridicule and shame.

She turns about, and in the garden meets whom she thinks is the gardener: "Oh sir, if you know where He is tell me." One word "Mary," and she recognizes the resurrected and glorified Lord. What joy and happiness fills her soul as she rushes forth to worship at His feet. Human? decidedly so. The fulfilment of His own words, "If you destroy this temple, in three days I will raise it up again." Now, they understood His meaning. The Master restrains her, "Touch me not, for I have not yet ascended to my God and to your God, but go and tell the brethren that I go before them into Jerusalem."

What a drama. What more fitting than to celebrate Easter at the season of the year when all creation is beginning to feel the urge to burst forth into newness of life. The animals lose their winter coats, the vegetation adorns itself with new leaves and verdure. Even mankind follows suit and every husband knows the insistent demands for a new get up for Easter.

And so, again we commemorate the resurrection to newness of life of Him who said "Let little children come unto me," and incidentally by His coming forth broke the lands of death and stole the victory from the tomb which it had held since the beginning. In our thoughts of Easter, let us remember the spirit of sacrifice and service connected therewith and see if by our own words and deeds we can make not only Easter day, but every other day, one of joy and happiness for those with whom we associate.

A VICTORY IS A STARTING POINT

(By John Edwin Price)
It is another thing to hold victory. It is another thing to hold it in the World War, when a contingent wins a hill they dig in to hold the position.

Those who felt they had won a great moral victory in putting the 18th amendment in the constitution—making it illegal for one man to sell another something that in its habit form and his family, made one mistake. They did not dig in or push on when that one victory was gained.

The person who has taken off several pounds of excess weight by following a certain diet and exercise regime has won a victory.

What he does with it is what counts. He must fight to hold it and do something more to gain the full advantage of the denial he has endured and the willpower he has developed.

In other words this victory is not a completion—it is a commencement—a starting point.

Many people who exercise and fast to lose some excess baggage are like some salesmen.
These salesmen will open a new account with the expenditure of a great deal of effort. They will then sit back and expect the orders to come in without tactful "follow ups". Oh, they may call on the account but they take too much for granted as to the degree in which the customer is "sold" on their product.

Another illustration was once furnished me by a young minister. He had won several new members to his church by a special campaign. He told me that his father had written a congratulatory letter in which he said, "Now your task is to make Christians of them."

Yes, in many departments of human activity a victory is just a starting point. The victor needs to ask himself two questions: "How can I hold this victory?" "Where do I go from here?"

These questions are especially pertinent when one has gained a victory over his excessive eating propensities and is working for personal development.

SENTENCE STIMULANTS

"I would rather turn the children of America over to Congress than the cotton mills of the South or North," says Mayor La Guardia. When you consider they were never here before and can't judge values and cannot defend themselves, only a burlesque to a man, with a yellow streak down his back a foot wide, would take advantage of little children, making them work in sweat shops.

We are all blind until we see
That in the human plan Nothing is worth the making if
It does not make the man.
Why build these cities glorious
If man unbuilded goes?
In vain we build a world, unless
The builder also grows.
—Markham.

KNUCKLES FOR HECKLES

Pathfinder reminds us that
"When a patron of Hollywood's Cocoanut Grove heckled "Old Maestro Ben Bernie about the cigar the band leader always wears in his mouth, Bernie replied with a swift right uppercut which skinned his knuckles and sprained two fingers. The heckler regained consciousness 20 minutes later and apologized."

FOR A BEAUTIFUL NECK

Do a few exercises every day especially to benefit your neck.
As often as you think of it, stretch yourself as tall as you can, lifting head and chest, flattening the abdomen, and straightening out the hollow in your back. Perfect posture is the best possible exercise for neck and chest. Head bending and rotating are good, too. This is an easy and effective exercise to include in your floor work: Lie flat on your back, arms outstretched at your sides. Now, keeping the back of your head on the floor, tip your chin upward and raise your shoulders as much as you can and still keep your arms on the floor.
Relax and repeat ten times. —

EXPERIMENTAL STATION LETHBRIDGE

WEEKLY LETTER
DEHORNING CALVES WITH CAUSTIC POTASH

After May 1, 1937, the meat packing industry proposes to begin discounting horned cattle weighing 400 pounds and over, $1.00 per head. The objective of this scheme is to encourage the dehorning of commercial cattle and to thereby reduce the heavy losses which are now being borne by the live stock industry through the failure of producers to dehorn their cattle.

Losses due to horns fall into three general classifications: (1) Feed wastage and direct injury, while cattle are still on pasture or in the feed lot. Controlled experiments and practical experience have proven conclusively that dehorned cattle feed more contentedly and make faster and cheaper gains than do horned cattle. (2) Substantial losses are incurred through damage to the hides while the cattle are enroute to market. This source of loss may be easily overlooked by the producer since its full significance does not become evident until the hides get into the hands of the tanners. (3) The third general heading under which horn losses may be classified is damage due to bruising of the beef, which simply means that large sections of what would otherwise be valuable carcass beef must be discarded or used in the manufacture of by-products.

Generally speaking the earlier the dehorning operation is performed the better the beef. In small farm herds the easiest way to remove the horn is by the use of caustic potash when the calf is very young. Caustic potash is comparatively cheap and may be purchased in convenient stick form from any drug store.

Best results are obtained if the operation is performed when the calf is about ten days old, at which time no real horns are visible but only the small buttons. First the hair should be clipped off around the buttons and vaseline applied to prevent the caustic from coming in contact with the skin except directly over the buttons. The moistened end of the caustic is then rubbed on the undeveloped horn. Two or three applications are necessary, the caustic being allowed to dry between each application. A good general rule is to apply just sufficient caustic to barely draw blood from the skin over the buttons. If too much is applied the caustic is likely to spread over the animal's head and cause severe and unnecessary burning of the skin, while if too little is applied the horn-forming tissues will not be killed and the horns will simply be delayed, not eliminated. After a little practice the operation will be found to be quite simple and practically 100 per cent effective. The operator would be well advised to protect his hand by wearing an old glove or by wrapping with paper the end of the caustic to be held in the hand.

Dr. Sockman said Sunday "Most people make mistakes but some people make mistakes pay."

Percy — "You look pretty slick in that new serge suit, Al." Al — "This isn't a new serge suit, Percy; it's just my old one re-shined."

Prof. Barnhart Believes In Paper Advertising

"Newspaper advertising builds confidence and good will, attracts new customers, increases sales, and stabilizes merchandise, methods and prices." So says Prof. Thomas F. Barnhart of the University of Minnesota.

He has given the matter considerable thought. From his experience and observations he has come to 14 definite conclusions.

1. Newspaper reading is a universal habit. Newspaper advertising therefore, reaches virtually all who read and buy.
2. A newspaper advertisement can always be seen by the reader.
3. The newspaper advertisement, as part of the complete paper, goes into the home as a welcome guest.
4. The newspaper advertisement can have as much reader interest and news value as the news items.
5. The amount of text used in newspaper advertisements is dependent only upon the size of space.
6. Newspaper advertising is flexible.
7. Newspaper advertising is quickly controlled.
8. Newspaper advertising may be adjusted to different conditions.
9. Newspaper advertising enables manufacturers and dealers to state where their products may be bought.
10. Newspaper advertising is inexpensive. Merchants have learned that it covers more families for less money than any other form of advertising.
11. Newspaper advertising results may be checked.
12. Newspaper circulation is known and is comparatively unaffected by daily change.
13. Nearly all of a newspaper's circulation is concentrated in its own market.
14. Newspaper advertising reduces selling costs because it entails no waste circulation. This helps reduce costs for the consumer.

STRONGLY OPPOSES ABERHART TAKING CORONATION TRIP

(The Calgary Herald)

An emphatic "No!" is Rev. Dr. Warwick F. Kelloway's answer to the question "Do you believe Premier Aberhart should go to the coronation?"

Answering the question from his Knox United Church pulpit Sunday evening, the Calgary minister made it clear that his strongly-expressed convictions was in no sense a reflection on the premier of the province personally. It would have been the same no matter who held office. "If the premier wants to go on a trip to London or anywhere else, and at his own expense, that is an entirely different matter," he said, "but to spend several thousand dollars on a sture of loyalty to the king, which loyalty can more really and more sincerely be shown by solving the grave problems of the people in this part of his realm where many of his subjects are in desperate and despairing circumstances, is in my judgment turning the scale of values upside down.

"Neither do I agree with the premiers of the other provinces attending the coronation, spending money which the people need so badly, nor with the expenditure of more than $700,000 by the federal government on the coronation when half that amount cannot be found to help the unfortunate blind people of this country.

"I wish to God," exclaimed the preacher, "that there was at least one public servant in high office in this country who thinks more of human beings and their welfare than of pomp and ceremony and his own income and pleasure."

READ THIS IF TEMPTED BORROW A NEWSPAPER

A veteran Arkansas newspaper editor editorially told his readers why "they should not borrow their neighbor's newspaper."

His pointed yarn was as follows: "One day a stingy man sent his son over to the neighbor's house to borrow the paper, and while the son was on his way he ran into a swarm of bees and his face soon looked like a summer squash. Hearing the agonized cries of his son, the father ran to his assistance and in so doing ran into a barbed wire fence, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining an $8 pair of pants.

The old cow took advantage of the hole in the fence and wandered off into the corn field where she ate so much green corn that she died the next morning.

"Hearing the prayerful words of the husband, the farmer's wife ran out of the house upsetting a four gallon churn of

Saturday was typical March weather, snowing a few minutes and then bright and sunny. Blustery and undecided as some people.

Another producer was added to the Turner Valley oil wells when the Sterling Pacific No. 4 blew into production Sunday last.

Heber Coles is home again after a few days spent in the hospital from stomach trouble. His many friends are glad to see him as well as he is again.

Miss Marie O'Brien is enjoying a holiday trip to the States. She is being relieved in the Telephone office by Miss Merle Jensen.

Everyone is rejoicing over the wet storm which has held sway this week. Much of the snow has melted and soaked into the ground, and will give a supply of moisture for crop germination.

Jack Barton, Jr., Taber farmer, sowed the major part of 40 acres of Marquis wheat Wednesday, St. Patrick's day and finished the seeding later. He should have some real early grain if frost doesn't get it when it comes up.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. T. Mendenhall and Mrs. H. P. Schneider were passengers in the O. H. Snow car to Salt Lake City last week. Mrs. Schneider is going to visit relatives in Beaver, Utah, while Mr. and Mrs. Snow will go on to Saint George, Utah.

Mrs. C. Wm. Selman is a patient in St. Michael's hospital Lethbridge, with a broken wrist and pelvis as a result of a fall from the verandah of J. G. Snow when a number of women were spending the evening there recently. She is getting along as well as can be expected.

The old —K2 ranch east of Cardston and south of Magrath, property of the Knight Sugar Co., was sold last week to the McIntyre Ranching Co., Knight Sugar Co. is reducing their ranch acreage when buyers come for land, but they still own a tremendous acreage south of Raymond on both sides of Milk River ridge.

At the election in the Canadian Manufacturers Association Convention held in Lethbridge last week, T. Geo. Wood, Manager of Canadian Sugar Factories Ltd. was elected to the directorate of the Provincial and the City of Lethbridge organizations.

The new car license went on sale throughout the Province Monday last. We will want to know how much grace we are going to have after April 1st. In view of the fact that few of the temporary slips were issued the new plates are being put on sale earlier, and those who purchased the yellow slips are $5.00 poorer, and little else for their investment because of the condition of roads, provincial highways included.

Dissension and division still prevail in Edmonton. Back benches of the Social Credit group are refusing to support the present budget brought down by Hon. Solon Low, and are intimating that if the estimates are not revised and some provision made to implement the promises made during the election, they are going to defeat it and demand the resignation of Premier Aberhart and his cabinet. Some house members are even suggesting a general election again.

cream into a basket of kittens and drowned the whole litter of kittens. The woman slipped on a porch step, breaking her leg and a $24.60 set of false teeth she had bought from a mail order house.

"The baby left alone, crawled through the cream and just about ruined some rugs in the living room.

"During the excitement the daughter eloped with the hired man and took the family savings with her.
